Our special thanks go to Mount Auburn Presbyterian Church and especially to Chris Miller, music director, for hosting this concert. For all the players and conductors, I would like to extend my heartfelt appreciation for their contribution of time and talent to make this concert possible.

We hold dear the memory of several trombonists who contributed greatly to the trombone world who left our earthly ensemble this year. – Bob Coil

Translation of Latin text for O Magnum Mysterium

O great mystery, and wonderful sacrament, that animals should see the new-born Lord lying in a manger!
O blessed is the Virgin, whose womb was worthy to bear Christ the Lord.
Alleluia!

Let There Be Peace On Earth

Let there be peace on Earth
And let it begin with me
Let there be peace on Earth
The peace that was meant to be
With God as our father
We are family
Let us walk with each other
In perfect harmony

Bob Coil is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati College-Conservatory of music, with a Bachelor of Music majoring in Education as well as performance on Bass Trombone. For many years he has led trombone ensemble performances and is leader of the Polished Brass quintet. He regularly performs with area groups, such as big bands, orchestras, and combos. In addition to playing trombone, Bob enjoys family activities and motorcycling.

The idea for the name of the Bones of Cincinnatus comes from the Roman General Lucius Quinctius Cincinnatus. Cincinnatus was asked by the Roman Senate to leave his farm and lead the army to defend Rome from invasion in 458 B.C. After defeating the invaders in 16 days, he resigned from the most powerful position in the army to return to his farm. Alexander Hamilton conceived of the Order of Cincinnatus as an association of notable leaders, and 2200 Revolutionary War officers serving for the good of the Republic. He persuaded George Washington to be the first president of the order. There was a companion Cincinnatus Society in Paris. Several of the early settlers in Cincinnati were members of the order, such as John Cleves Symmes and Israel Ludlow, and are honored with places named for them.
